ORDER PATTERNS AND STENCILS BY NUMBER and mention page. Don't forget to sign your name and full address to each order. We frequently receive orders with no signature. Sometimes the town or state is omitted. Of course we can do nothing about sending such an order until we hear from the customer.

WE FILL ALL ORDERS PROMPTLY. If after a reasonable time you should not receive your goods write us when the order was sent, what you ordered, whether you sent money order, bills, coin or stamps—Your complaint will be investigated at once.

IN REMITTING use a Money Order. It is the cheapest and safest way to send money. If your letter is lost you can have a new Money Order issued. It is unsafe to put coins or bills in an ordinary letter. If unavoidable, have it registered. We will guarantee the delivery of any order when 10 cents additional is sent for registration of package. We will not accept Canadian Stamps or Money. United States postage stamps are only accepted for amounts of 25 cents or less. Don't send stamp books.

PUNCH EMBROIDERY.

This pleasing work is a revival of old style embroidery. Fabrics embroidered in this way have a very elaborate, lacy effect. It should be remembered however that punch work is suitable to be done only on round thread or open meshed fabrics as the work cannot be done on closely woven material. For outlining and the punch work as well, we suggest the use of D. M. C. Perle cottons, sizes either 3 (coarse), 5 (medium), or 8 (fine), determined by whether the design is open or close. It is better to use a twisted cotton because there is considerable wear on the thread which must be firmly pulled in doing the punch work. Stitches are taken through the little dots in the background of the design and the method is made clear by the following diagrams, figures 1, 2 and 3.

Thread the needle with the cotton, fasten the thread to the wrong side of the fabric and draw the needle through at the first dot in the second row, beginning at the left (G); send the needle down on the dot in the first row immediately above this (A); bring it up at G, down again at A, and up through the second dot in the second row H; down on the second dot in the first row B; and up at H; down again at B, and up on the third dot in the second row I.

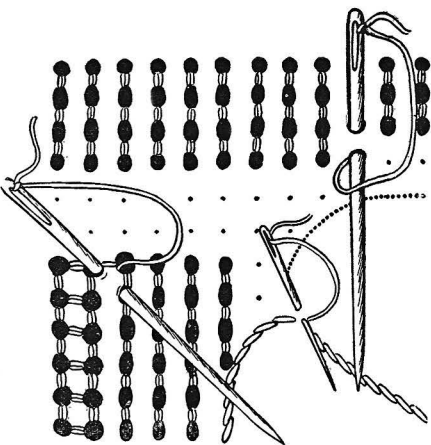

Fig. 3

This is virtually all there is to the stitch. When the end of the row is reached, after working the perpendicular stitch from L to F, bring the needle up on the first dot at the right on the third row (R), which brings the needle in position for making the first perpendicular stitch in the second row from R to L. In this row the work proceeds from right to left instead of from left to right, as in the first row across, but the method of working is precisely the same. The perpendicular stitch ties the threads of the fabric and the diagonal stitch, on the reverse side of the fabric, brings the needle into position for the next stitch. When all the work is done in this direction across the space to be filled, turn the fabric so that the side becomes the top and do the same work in the dots already done, the stitches being placed at right angles to those first worked. Figure 3 shows the method of working very clearly. As the linen shrinks a little in working the openwork backgrounds, the stitches must not be drawn too tightly, yet they must be pulled firmly enough to open the spaces. When finished, the work should be pinned face down on flannel, dampened and carefully pressed.

M. HEMINWAY & SONS ART NEEDLEWORK SILKS.

We have sold Heminway silks for twenty-six years. During that time we have used them for nearly every style of embroidery. It is our opinion after this experience that these silks are smoother in finish and brilliancy, than any other make, while for washing qualities they cannot be excelled. We send a shade card showing over 400 shades of silk for 10 cents—which amount we will allow on your first purchase of silks amounting to 45 cents.

Price of either Rope, Turkish, Twisted or Filo floss, 45 cents doz, 4 cents skein.

D. M. C. Embroidery Cottons.

There is no other make of embroidery cotton which equals D. M. C. for uniformity and permanency of dye. The makers of D. M. C. embroidery cottons guarantee their product to be the best made. During the past ten years there have been many embroidery cottons introduced to the public, but our experience, and that of our customers, proves most of them to be merely of ordinary quality when compared with the famous D. M. C.
